Board taps GEC funds

By a slim 3-2 majority, Hancock supervisors Monday proposed to spend some $200,000 in GEC funds delegated to the county in 1972 as Hurricane Camille relief funds and a source of debate since between the county and state auditor. W Hampton King, over repayment.

The issue of the funds came to a head Monday after opening of bids for road. work in supervisor James Travirca's beat drew a question from board president Dolph Kellar as to where the funds were coming from to perform the

Supervisor Jerry Ladner, who anitially stood opposed to the use of the GEC funds changed his mind and voted to award the contract using the GEC funds after apparently striking a bargain with Travirca

Ladner had said at first that he was under the impression that the money for the work was to come from revenue sharing funds

Left together supervisor H 'Bully Zengarling and president Kellar said they would remain unalterably opposed to spending any of the GEC funds.

"If we spend this money," Kellar said how are we even going to pay the interest due. I don't intend to spend one. cent of this," he added.

"There's one thing I'd like you to 'keep in mind," Kellar said, "and that is next August you have another interest payment due. If you're going to spend the money I don't know how you're going to pay this interest back." "We take this money and invest it so we can pay this interest back," he said. "The county is not in the savings and loan business," Ladner replied. He added that he was opposed to simply sitting on the money and collecting a higher rate of interest than was being charged the county.

"The law", he continued, "says that if this loan is not repaid by 1975 that the legislators will either forgive the loan or add millage to the tax payers to recover the money.'

"Do you think," Ladner-said, "that these legislators are going to increase millage right before election time. There's no way they are going to do that," he added. -

Ladner sald that he sincerely

Ladner changed his opposition to support of Travurca after the latter told . him that he had some $50,000 himself in his own beat that he could spend. Travirca said that he (Ladner) could advertise for bids "tomorrow" if he wanted and added he wouldn't oppose

"You can spend your money anyway you want to, Travirca said.

The discussion was ended after supervisor Oscar Peterson introduced a motion to accept Shaw Supply's bid with the stipulation that the work be paid for out of GEC funds Ladner seconded the motion. After a roll call vote on the matter the board split 3-2 on the question with Kellar and Zengarling

Immediately following the vote Ladrier called for another motion to have county engineer Don Murray go into Beat One and examine drainage areas in his beat.

Election date up for grabs

Hancock County supervisors will meet in special session Sept. 16t to consider the request of county school board members to reset last Saturday's aborted bond election for Oct. 19.

The special session, being called by board president Dolph Kellar, will consider whether the election, cancelled by supervisors because of the threat of Hurricane Carmen, should be included in general elections in November or held separately.

Members of the school board Tuesday indicated that they were not in favor of combining the issue of the bond election with general elections in November and have opted for the Oct.

Questions concerning the legal authority of the supervisors to cancel the election Sept. 7 now moot, were not discussed again Tuesday.

Sam Favre, attorney for the board, previously advised the board that they had no legal precedence to cancel Saturday's election.

Hazeur's denunciation of the board came during a discussion of board and administrative policies, contested by Hazeur and board president William Breland

Breland had earlier expressed reluctance over the board borrowing $30,300 on a shor; term loan which was needed, according superintendent J. D. Why are we only now at the point of concilhation when we may have a federal case against us. Hazeur asked. The board should be better informed on all such matters, he said angrily, and should not have to "hear it on the street, where I found out about Mrs. Mitchell's problem

McCullouch and trustee Mrs Joseph Gev. Jr both contended that the case had been discussed at earlier meetings when Hazeur had been absent

Mrs. Gex, who holds a degree in library science, explained that prior to 1971, state requirements called for a qualified librarian only at the high school level. A state statute passed in 1971 authorized a librarian's aid at junior high and elementary the soaring cost of electricity. And they come from every part of Mississippi, not just the Fifth Congressional,

-- As I point out to those who write, I can situation and have been working with the Federal Power Commission and the Mississippi Public Service Commassioners to alleviate, as expeditiously as possible, these extreme unchéases

Congress is well aware of the problem, too In fact, natural gas hearings were held late last month by the Senate Commerce Committee, encompassing the entire spectrum of our nation's natural gas usage, the everall matter of natural gas regulations, and the forecast of projected consumption by utility companies

Officials of the Mississippi Power and Light Company and the Commissioners of the Mississippi Public Service Commission testified at these hearings.

In addition, the Federal Power Commission will hold hearings this month Mississippi Power and Light Company, along with the Mississippi Public Service | Commission, will... request relief from the present curtailment plan of hatural gas

I have personally urged the Federal Power Commission to give all due consideration to this request. I simply feel that this will be the most expeditious course of action for relief in the immediate future.

I have also jolnéd my Mississippi congressional colleagues in writing a strong letter to the Federal Power Commission, urging that the case be moved to the head of the docket for ummediate consideration.

"The financial burden to Mississippf consumers caused by extremely high electricity costs has reached a critical level," the letter reads. "As a result of the curtailment order, and the increases in the gost of fuel oil as a substitute fuel, many of our state's citizens are simply no longer able to pay for their electricity.

"The elderly, frequently on fixed incomes such as veterans pensions or Social Security, see electric bills totally eroding incomes badly needed for food and medicines."

The problem, of course, is not confined to the federal government. It is a problem shared by all of us - - includingthe consumer, the Mississippi Public service Commission, the power com panies and the gas companies.

I am hopeful that some avenue of approach to this costly situation can be devised, and I shall continue to closely monitor this pressing matter of high costs of electricity for the residents of

The Board of Supervisors has seen fit to harass Sheriff Ladner about food in Hancock Co Jail. Well sir, you can take it from one that knows.

I am a prisoner in the said to Jail since December 1973. I was locked up 4 months. I would also cuss out Mr. Jerry Ladner about food conditions there for about 3 months. I cooked in the Air Force for 212 years. I also cooked in a Federal Prison for 112 years

What I am getting at is that Mr Ladner is lucky to be able to feed said prisoners on the $2 that the Board gives him the way food prices are today. I have seen Sheriff Ladner, his wife and Deputies run back and forth to the sale at the big stores here in town trying to get stuff that was on sale, at their twin expense and time, so that he could with

It is still the same way today and everyone knows how prices have sink up since It was only two meals there This whole thing does not maker to me I just have a number of days to go I an: doing this now for the prisoners in just and ones to follow

HELP THE YOUTH Dear Editor

I am a student at Hancock North Central My name is Michael Ladner I have attended this school for six years. In those six years there have been three major problems

(1) Overcrowded classes - caused by students who are from Gulfview and Pearlington, who do not have a high school on that end

2 · Cafeteria - it was built to feed 300 people. It is now feeding about 1,000 people. The elementary starts eating at 10/30 and the high school at 1/30.

3. Gymnasium - boys and girls varsity boys and girls Jr high, Physical Education, and sometimes the elementary, all use the same dressing rooms, there are four small dressing rasons in all

I have listed these reasons because there will be a school bond issue coming up to change these problems if it is passed

Some residents of the county do not like the officials who are in office. The reason for this is they think if it is a passed, they will put some extra money appropriated for the schools into their pockets.

I think that if it helps the YOUTH of Hancock County it will be well worth the lew extra dollars that it costs the taxpayer

Sincerely Michael Ladner White Cypress Community

The veterans administration has started a new program designed to help veterans who are going to college under "the GT Bill It's called "Vet-Rep" program

Vet-Reps have been specially selected and trained by the VA to become experts on veterans affairs regarding educational claims. They are placed on college and university campuses throughout the state to help iron out any problems that arise between the college, the veteran and the Veteran Administration, Many of them will be on a full time basis to help expedite your assistance checks, fill out VA Forms properly and answer any questions you may have

Definition of a veteran for medical purposes A veteran for medical purposes is a person who has served in the active military, naval or air service, and who was discharged or released therefrom under conditions other than dishonorable. Any veteran so defined is eligible for VA hospitalization. The requirement for wartime service has been eliminated This means that if, a veteran does NOT have a dishonorable discharge, he is eligible for hospitalization It has always been of utmost importance that when claiming a serviceconnected disability, that the most specific information available, as to _date of treatment, place of treatment i e name of hospital, and the veterans military organization at the time of treatment be given. The need for this information has been highlighted even more since the fire at the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis,

For those records involved in the fire Army records dated 1912 through 1959 and Air Force records I through Z dated Septembber 1947 through December 1963) the Records Center is asking for the organization identity, to include units and sub-units down to Company level and the inclusive dates the Veteran served in each Such information will permit a search of organizational records for available data when the military records cannot be located elsewhere

All of this means that processing delays can be shortened if the required information can be included when the claim is first put in. It would also assist if, when complete information cannot be recalled, that the claim form states that more complete information is not available.

It is realized the difficulty in recalling all this information but if you feel that you have a valid claim it is worth it. A claimant might write to one of the men. who were in his unit and get the information, or the name of someone who could give the information

Look up your old Special Orders that assigned you to or transferred you from the unit. It could mean an awful lot of money to you and your dependents if you can give the correct information

It's up to you..."

Commercial Jars Not

MISSISSIPPI STATE -Jars used for commercial purposes, such as mayonnaise jars, are not suitable substitutes for standard canning

Nancy Ertz, food-nutrition specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service at Mississippi State University. said homemakers who cannot get standard canning iars this summer better look to their freezer or start drying their surplus produce

The specialist gave several reasons for avoiding commercial jars

Regular canning hids are not designed to give an airtight seal on commercial jars.

"Canning lids do not properly seal commercial jars because the necks are too short for the bands to screw down tightly," she explained. "Using the lid that comes on the commercial jar is a poor practice too Once it has been opened, the lid will not give an airtight seal when re-

Regular canning lids will not give airtight seals when they're re-used either For this reason home canned foods should always be sealed with new lids

Failure to get an airtight seal can lead to food spoilage. "The purpose of the seal is to keep out organisms that cause spoilage. Without an airtight seal, you run the risk of letting harmful organisms in," she noted.

Lack of heat-treated glass is the second reason for avoiding commercial jars

Top educator pushes equal opportunities

By MARGUERITE SULLIVAN

Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - Virginia Trotter might not figure prominently in the women's lib hall of fame, but for the next few years her name just might be linked with the cause. As the top educator in the United States, Dr. Trotter must help implement new federal regulations, expected to go into effect by January, which ban sex discrimination in education.

That means "equal access and equal opportunity" for both sexes in everything from the football field to the auto mechanics and home economics classrooms.

Just weeks into her job as assistant secretary for education in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (she was sworn in June 13), Dr. Trotter, 52, who previously was a university administrator, says fortunately the "women's area" is one in which she has a special inter-

She won't be responsible for enforcing the new anti-sex discrimination regulations that will be the job of the Office for Civil Rights. Her education division, however, will help school systems work out their plans for compliance with the guidelines.

Her efforts for equal opportunity won't start with the jobhunting stage, but will begin in grade schools, in the writing of textbooks, on athletic fields and in student counseling rooms.

'We've had testing services (in schools) for years," she said "If you scored high in science and you were a woman,

If the sexes are separated, a school must prove its sports program is equal "in terms of facilities and in terms of instruction and in terms of what happens," she said.

'They can have a boys' football course, but they have to be sure that a girl can take football, too, if she wants to. We may have girl football kickers, who knows?"

Equal access won't be onesided.

Boys will be able to get out of the "bachelor" baking courses and take real home economics. If they want to take shorthand, they can.

"I would like to think that women could grow up learning that it is just as important to make a contribution to productive work of some kind and not be afraid because they didn't get married," Dr. Trotter said.

TO THE PEOPLE OF WAVELAND

Thank you, the coordinating agencies, and the volunteers for your immediate response to the necessary actions taken o avoid the possible dangers from Hurricane Carmen. In an answer to our prayers we were spared the onslaught of another direct burricane force.

In future disasters, your ability and courage will be again needed, you will quickly answer the call to duty. You will again act as one family, a homogenous group, one unit, dedicated to the people.

Thank you so much and may God bless you.

Sincerely yours, John Longo, Jr. Mayor and Board of Aldermen INFLATIONARY FLUFF

Inflation is eating up corporation profits, according to George Hagedorn, chief economist of the National Association of Manufacturers. In. 1973 U.S. corporations recorded $43 billion in retained profits, but $25 billion of this was offset by inflation

Complaints of nuisances are common from late model car owners, who say it is a job-just-to get in and out of the car. Or bring home a bag of groceries in the passenger seat Or close the garage door without going through a noisy routine

Many former seat belt users seem to be degenerating into seat belt haters, at the hand of a federally mandated system designed to save lives on the

Mechanics — who generally refuse to disconnect the systerns required in 1974 cars report new car owners are trying all sorts of tactics to send electrical interlocking belt systems to the grave.

Every week we get calls to bail out the do-it-yourselfers, who try to disconnect the system without knowing what they are doing," said one mechanic.

Most often, these jobs foul up wiring so the car's engine won't start.

"These are temperamental systems. You've got to be about one-half electronic expert to work on the new cars today ''

Then, the old-timer began reminiscing about the days before "Big Brother stepped in" — when an interior light was an accessory.

The 1974 models have come a long way. Several mechanics referred to the key of the new interlocking system as "the Brain," a small computer in many models that permits the engine to start only after seat belts have been retracted and fastened. In the meantime, the system is programmed to buzz as a prodding reminder to buckle

Federal law requires al 1974 models sold in the United States to be equipped with the interlocking seat belt system. But the government loses control once the car is sold.

"The intent of the law is being violated by anyone who disconnects the system," said J. F. Zemaitis, spokesman for the administration in San Francisco. "But legally, we have no means to stop this."

The administration discourages both mechanics and motorists from disconnecting the system. Recent studies show it has significantly increased seat belt usage. Fashion Design Can Be An "Open Sesame" To A New Life

"Today's liberated women," snys Kit Moss, Director of the National School of Dress Design, "have many opportuni-ties to find work that's fun ties to find work that s fun-and, also, monetarily reward-ing. Fashion design is an ex-cellent example of an activity that can bring new excite-ment, new challenges into a workin's life." woman's life.

The fashion world is a woman's world . . . forever changing ... forever interesting. Dress design may have had its origins as far back as the first enterprising cavewoman who wrapped a bearskin around herself in a manner that was womanly different. It's been a career area that's been expanding volcanically since "vive la difference" be came a gleam in cavemen's

Now, especially at this time -learning about the who, what, when, where and how of dress designing can banish a hum drum existence and help create a richer, fuller life for the woman who is really searching for an "Open Sestme" to a new life Figuratively speaking fashion design offers as many career opportunities as there are leaves on a tree Fashion coordinator, fitter, sample mak-er, stylist, buyer, illustrator, color consultant, fashion consultant, shop owner, costume designers for stage, movie or TV are examples of some of the better playing positions that are relatively common in the current sob market. Tradi-tionally, Paris has been the recognized leader of fashion This is a tradition that's crumbling American dress designers have met their French competition with gusto and have come into their own With new design centers springing up in major cetro-politan areas—notably cities in New York, California and Texas-there is a great need for skilled, highly trained de-

With profusely illustrated lessons you learn right in your own home. step by step each fundamen-tal phase of dress designing. Many who do not wis' make a career of tashion design use the knowledge acquired to design their own wardrobes, their children's clothes or clothes for friends. Just because homes in a neighborhood are the same approximate size, doesn't mean the electric bills will be the same. Habits, insulation, and the time of year have a great deal to do with the amount of your bill.

Some people like cooler homes, other feel comfortable in more moderate temperatures. Soaking in a full tub of hot water is not as economical as taking a shower. Doors are left standing open at some houses, where some people practice keeping the cool or warm air in.

Electric bills can be higher for the same reason your grocery, gas and paper bills have gone up—according to how you use them.

Your Electric Power Association is as concerned about the high cost of power as you are. There is no immediate answer in sight.

A LURE PRIMER Lishing luies are fascinating. They come in all sizes, colors and shapes. They gurgle, splut-ter, shimmy, spin, dance, dive-and float. And occasionally some of them catch fish. Neophyte anglers are often confused by the multitude of lutes available to stuff in their brand new tackle boxes. They usually buy what the tackle salesman recommends (the highest priced), what their friends recommend (they don't want any competition), or what hap-pens to look good to them at the moment. Scidom does a beginning angler know just what the different dures do.

To help solve the dilemma of which lures do what, the fishing experts (at Mercury outhoards have compiled a lure primer for new anglers. It doesn't tell which lure to use, but it does indicate what a particular type of lure is supposed to do.

Deep diving lures: These have lips in front to plane them down to deep water when retrieved. They can be either floating-diving or sinking lures. Sinkers let you fish to the bottom, depending upon the re-trieval speed. Floating-diving lures are good down to about 20 feet. Both troll well, and the speed of your outboard-powered boat determines the trolling

Sinking lures: Spoons, spinners and sinking plugs go right to the bottom when cast, Some spoons wobble while sinking

and they are frequently taken by fish then. Others need to be retrieved from the bottom.
Sinking plugs are classed according to the best depth for retrieving them: shallow, medium, deep. Vary the speed to give spoons and plugs more action. Some spinners work best when retrieved just below the

EVERYMAN'S FISHING TACKLE

For many years a snobbish attitude existed among some fishermen, toward spinfishing tackle. They peered down their nosed at this type of fishing gear as though it were inferior. The truth is that spinfishing can be a superior method over other kinds of fishing tackle, and it's relatively easy to learn how to use. An indication of spinning's acceptance today comes from professional sport anglers questioned by Mercury outboards' outdoor recreation department. Most of them admit to using at least one spin-

Bay High took a 6-0 lead in the first quarter on a 10 yard run by Mike Ray...

The Tigers second TD was scored by Lee Morris on a hand off from Quarterback Mike Magee from 10 yards out. The Tigers were able to convert one extra point for their total of 13 points.

Stone County managed to get only one touchdown, but returning letterman Peter Saia kicked two field goals, an extra point and defensive end Tommy Peterson dropped Tiger quarterback Mike Magee behind the goal line for a safety.

Hurricane Carmen passed us by, thank goodness. The storm proved a great threat to this section for several hours. Coming on the weekend it made a lot of fishermen stay home to board up businesses and take care of home duties necessary when a hurricane threatens. Over the weekend practically no fishing, crabbing or shrimping could be done due to rainy weather, high winds and water. Sunday the sun shone but it was too windy for most any kind of fishing.

Don't think fresh water fishing was hurt too much except the water was churned up and was on the dirty side. A couple of days will be required to get the water back to normal and bass and perch will be caught as usual.

Salt water fishing will also get back to normal again. Shrimp boats were tied up but are operating again.

Most boats at the Yacht Club and kept in outside waters were moved to safety up the rivers and bayous but have been brought back to their moorings by now.

Joy Monti, Charlene Coco, Anna Margaret Boudreaux, Ruby Blaize, and Rosemary Blaize went fishing again last week. They caught 75 speckles, some rat reds, ground mullets and croakers. The girls are getting good and get their share of the finny tribe on each trip out. They said catching them is a lot of

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Caillier. New-comers to Clermont Harbor, are ardent fishermen. They have been getting their share also.

Read where Dr. Emile Bertucci, Chief of Staff at St. Bernard General Hospital, and assistants did a good job last week during Project Halt. Residents of St. Bernard ha their blood pressure checked and other checks made. It was a job well done.

Better take a little time off to do some fly fishing Doc. The fish need to be checked too and it is good for what ails you.

In recognition of the outstanding contributions that Louisiana's hunters and fishermen have made to conservation, recreation, and the economy, the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission today proclaimed September 28, as LOUISIANA HUNTING AND FISHING DAY and determined that this day be an annual observance on the fourth Saturday of each September.

J. Burton Angelle, director of the Commission, commented that for the past three years National Hunting and Fishing Day has been observed on the last Saturday of September for the purpose of giving well deserved and special recognition to the hunters and fishermen of the country.

He said since the turn of the century, hunters and anglers have been the leaders in nearly all major conservation programs and these sportsmen-conservationists are responsible for the founding of state fish and game departments in all 50 states.

They asked that they. themselves, be required to buy licenses and that the money collected be used to support state conservation agencies: In the last 50 years alone, these sportsmen have provided $2.5 billion for conservation programs.

There are a lot of our local sportsmen who fish and hunt in Louisiana. Thought they would be interested in the

Kinder hard to write this column this week. Hurricane Carmen took the spot light. But there is always something

According to Harry Roman, Louis Decell and Hoke Ogden they have made plans to go dove hunting as soon as the season opens. The season opens in Miss. the middle of Sept. They have everything ready for the opening day. According to the three, doves are heree and some good shooting should be at hand.

Judge Homes pulled a fast one-went to North Miss. where the season opens sooner. More on this later. Don't know how many doves he killed.

Ray Garner and John Ladner are both good dove hunters. They will be after the prize birds a little later.

A. C. Mitchell and Joe Kern are mostly fly fishermen. When the season turns to hunting a lot of fishermen go to hunting. This applies to these two sportsmen. J. C. Koenenn and Russell

Elliott made a nice fishing trin to the Louisiana marsh. They returned with speckles, red fish, sheepshead, etc. of course this was before the threat of Carmen. The old girl spoiled everything. Forgot to say they had flounders, too.

Another good fisherman is Ree Elliott who operates a picture show at Gulfport. Ree has purchased a swell boat which he shares with his friends. Fishing is his second love. He goes on every occasion. Just another Elliott when it comes to fishing. Enough said!

Harold Favre doesn't do much fishing. Doesn't even crab. But he and the madam are tops when it come to making stuff crabs. Better try them if you want to find out what another seafood tastes

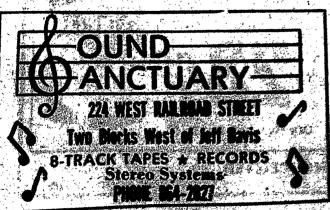

Carmen kept Eddie Engelhorn and his wife home the past weekend. No fishing, no boating, no nothing, said Eddie. There will be other

Mourning Doves are taking the top spot this month. The food for doves is almost entirely weedseeds and waste grain. They prefer small seeds, but corn, peanuts and soybeans are taken. Corn fields, millet fields and soy bean fields come first in their liking. Hunters surround these fields and shoot them mostly when they fly over or light to feed. Of course, not too good hunters shoot them on the posse when lighting in trees or on the ground. However when they are killed they make for mighty good eating. During the long breeding season a single pair may nest six times.

As a precautionary measure be sure you have a hunting license. Our game wardens are mighty good fellows but have a job to do. Help them by obeying all hunting laws. Make it easy on yourself too.

bass fishing gets back to normal. Often threats of a storm. Tides have to get right and the waters clear. Should have some good fishing soon. Floundering and soft crabbing should also get better. Fix up

SSC seniors receive rings

The largest class of seniors in the history of St. Stanislaus received their class rings in ceremonies held in the school chapel September 2, before a crowd of parents, faculty members and friends.

Brother Pierre St. Pierre. SSC president, distributed rings to 84 young men. Br. Bennett, senior class moderator, welcomed seniors and their guests and Br. Lee Barker, principal, gave a short address in which he stresses the importance of the leadership expected of the seniors.

Rev. Gerhard Vogel, S.V.D., rector of St. Augustine Seminary in Bay St. Louis, blessed the rings. This group represented the 121st graduating class at St. Stanislaus.

SPORTSMAN WEEK

Herman Holden doesn't claim to be much of a fisherman but he does take credit for raising some of the homely earthworms used by still fishermen for catching bass and perch. Herman said he is going to raise night crawlers, the larger of the species.

'Cafe racing' comes to U.S.

By JERRY ABBOTT Copley News Service

When Peter McIntosh became bored with his two-vearold Honda 750, he didn't trade it in on a newer model. Instead he visited a local motorcycle accessory shop and had his stock bike converted into a "cafe racer," a European styling fad that is taking America by storm.

Cafe racers are simply cosmetically altered motorcycles, outfitted to look as much machines as possible. Cafe admits McIntosh, an intern at racing got its start in England in the early 1960s when riders. "But now everybody's getting would challenge one another into cafe bikes so I decided to to informal Sunday afternoon races from pub to pub.

Today cafe racers are found throughout Europe, but it wasn't until a year ago that the fad began catching on inthe United States.

Two years ago I would have considered converting my bike into a chopper with those small wheels, high han-like production road racing dlebars and all that chrome," a major Los Angeles hospital. climb on the bandwagon."

For the uninitiated, it can be expensive to climb on the bandwagon. Complete cafe racer conversions .- including such necessary items as a fiber glass flaring, dropped handlebars, special shifting mechanisms and a large-capacity fuel tank - can cost $500 and up.

Only three or four boats were left by late Saturday to ride out the storm. . . some deliberately scuttled to increase their chances. There was no report of serious damage to any club, who did not remove them Friday, had to struggle with boat or the club facilities as Carmen spared the Gulf Coast.

Carmen cancels Coast appearance

After arousing Gulf Coast residents into feverish but controlled action in anticipation of her appearance Saturday, hurricane Carmen cancelled the Coast and slammed into Louisiana. Gulf Coast residents nailed up. battened down, boarded up and took off for other parts in anticipation of the first hurricane since Camille five years ago. But Carmen didn't show. The tropical depression that started way down in the Yucatan moved slowly north to the Gulf of Mexico all day Thursday and Friday, picking up speed and slowing down, always gaining in intensity, her winds reaching as much as 150-180 miles per hour velocity when she -was 150 miles South of New Orleans. Most Coast residents rememt ed

Camille too well. Starting Thurs by there were few signs of panic b t quickening action and preparedness. It only takes one hurricane to learn one's lesson. Great numbers of people on the Coast have lived through three and even four.

Hordes of shoppers filled grocery and hardware stores throughout the day Friday and Saturday morning stocking up on the things they knew they would need to sustain through a hurricane and in the days following, in anticipation of no electricity, go water, no food.

Civil Defense units along the Coast line and inland rallied and went immediately into disaster preparedness plans opening schools, public buildings and other designated shelter areas to receive hundreds and possibly thousands of refugees fleeing the

By Saturday noon, the skies were grey and glowering, gusts of wind and torrential rain fell intermittenly and roads leading out of the cities were clogged with bumper to bumper traffic.

Conditions got worse and worse on Highways Mr. 49 and I-10 going east, west and north until by noon Saturday, the State Highway Patrol reported traffic at a standstill on Highway, 49.

The little towns of Waveland and Pass Chri tian, perhaps hardest hit of all by Camille, have no official disaster shelters available within the two towns. according to a Red Cross emergency worker. Their citizens, along with almost the entire communities of Lakeshore, Clermont Harbor and DeLisle, moved en masse into NSTL

Millage holds

Hancock County supervisors made what amounted to only "slight shufmillage fles" " in - setting Monday for the 1974-75 fiscal year. The board will keep the present 70.55 mills currently assessed which does not include an extra one mill that was reinstated to retire old beat five road and bridge bonds.

"The changes in the millage included reductions of a quarter of a mill from both the pauper's fund and the individual sick and public health funds and levy increases of .15 and .10 mills respectively for the sanitary land fill and the civil defense.

In addition the board restablished a quarter mill tax for the veteran service

In another move the board decided to lump together millage which was assessed separately in 1973 under county and regional planning.

The board combined the .10 mill levied for the county planning commission and the .40 mill for the regional planning commission under : blanket planning budget without specifying how the money would be spent. The move completed expectations that supervisors would not renew the .4 mill which had beer designated for the Gulf Regional Planning Commission whose director Jack Different resigned two weeks ago presumoa: crumbling support.

GRPC also lost its millage assessment from Pearl River Count this month.

In other business board attorney Sam Favre revealed that he had received notification of intent to seek court action against the board for its decision to award a $711,000 contract to Alabama Waterproofing, Birmingham, for the repair of four miles of Beach

AMCO Corporation Inc., of Bay St. Louis is filing the appeal as second low bidder on the project at $798,000. $798,000

The board was also notified by Mrs. Lucretia Fly that the county's Food Stamp Program was losing one worker due to a cutback in state personnel ordered by Governor William Waller.

Mrs. Ely said that the immediate effects on the food stamp program would be a general slowing down in applications and processing distribution of the food stamps.

Millage down, assessments up

The Bay St. Louis city council accepted a slight reduction in millage for the 1974-75 fiscal year Wednesday though the reduction from 55 to 49.80 mills will not mean a loss of tax dollars in the city coffers.

Instead because of increased assessments in the 1974 land roll the city will actually see a slight increase in city revenue

Taxes in 1973 brought in $258,538 while 1974 taxes are expected to bring in $261,261

"We are really trying to cut the budget down to bare bones," said city councilman Lucien Kidd.

The council voted unanimously to accept the new millage.

Budgets which will be affected by the millage decrease include the city general fund which is being reduced from 15 mills to 12.2 mills, the outdoor recreation fund reduced from one mill to 75 mill, parks and playgrounds reduced from 1.5 mills to 1.2 mills, the library fund reduced from one to .75 mill and the minimum bond sinking fund which is being reduced from .50 to

Other decreases include a one mill reduction in the $75,000 special improvement fund reduced from five mills to four mills and a half mill reduction in schools from 31 to 30.50

The council reduced school millage by a half mill after cutting the bonded indebtedness millage from 6.50 mills to four mills and creating a mill and a half for short term loans.

Board taps GEC funds

by Dan Barber

By a slim 3-2 majority, Hancock supervisors Monday proposed to spend some $200,000 in GEC funds delegated to the county in 1972 as Hurricane Camille relief funds and a source of debate since between the county and state auditor, W. Hampton King, over repayment.

The issue of the funds came to a head Monday after opening of bids for road work in supervisor James Travirca's beat drew a question from board president Dolph Kellar as to where the funds were coming from to perform the

When Travirca replied that he intended to use GEC funds to pay for the work, two supervisors including Kellar expressed surprise and ignorance of the

The road work which entails resealing work on approximately two miles of Washington Rd., and four and a half miles each on Standard Bell Creek, and Fenton-Dedeaux Roads, drew only one bid from Shaw Supply Company, Perkinston. Their bid totalled $60,579.65 for the three roads.

Supervisor Jerry Ladner, who initially stood opposed to the use of the GEC funds changed his mind and voted to award the contract using the GEC funds after apparently striking a bargain with Travirca.

Ladner had said at first that he was . under the impression that the money for the work was to come from revenue sharing funds.

Left together supervisor H. 'Bully' Zengarling and president Kellar said they would remain unalterably opposed to spending any of the GEC funds.

"If we spend this money," Kellar said how are we even going to pay the interest due. I don't intend to spend one cent of this," he added.

"There's one thing I'd like you to keep in mind," Kellar said, "and that is next August you have another interest payment due. If you're going to spend the money I don't know how you're going to pay this interest back. "We take this money and invest it so we can pay this interest back," he said. "The county is not in the savings and loan business," Ladner replied. He added that he was opposed to simply sitting on the money and collecting a higher rate of interest than was being charged the county.

"The law", he continued, "says that if this loan is not repaid by 1975 that the legislators will either forgive the loan or add millage to the tax payers to recover the money."

"Do you think," Ladner said, "that these legislators are going to increase millage right before election time. There's no way they are going to do that," he added.

that he sincerely

forgive the loan in the next legislative session.

Ladner changed his opposition to support of Travirca after the latter told him that he had some $50,000 himself in his own beat that he could spend. Travirca said that he (Ladner) could advertise for bids "tomorrow" if he wanted and added he wouldn't oppose

"You can spend your money anyway you want to. Travirca said.

The discussion was ended after supervisor Oscar Peterson introduced a motion to accept Shaw Supply's bid with the stipulation that the work be paid for out of GEC funds. Ladner seconded the motion. After a roll call vote on the matter the board split 3-2 on the question with Kellar and Zengarling

Immediately following the vote Ladner called for another motion to have county engineer Don Murray go into Beat One and examine drainage areas in his beat.

"Aha that's just what I expected," Kellar exclaimed.

After Travirca seconded the motion, Kellar called for another roll call vote on the motion with the board splitting along the same lines on the second

Election date up for grabs

Hancock County supervisors will meet in special session Sept. 16 to. consider the request of county school board members to reset last Saturday's aborted bond election for Oct. 19.

The special session, being called by board president Dolph Kellar, will consider whether the election, cancelled by supervisors because of the threat of Hurricane Carmen, should be included in general elections in November or held separately.

Members of the school board Tuesday indicated that they were not in favor of combining the issue of the bond election with general elections in November and have opted for the Oct. 19 date.

Questions concerning the legal authority of the supervisors to cancel the election Sept. 7 now moot, were not discussed again Tuesday.

Sam Favre, attorney for the board, previously advised the board that they had no legal precedence to cancel Saturday's election.

School board seeks special election Oct. 19

Hancock county school board members were unanimous Tuesday in a decision to seek a prompt re-scheduling of Saturday's aborted school bond election cancelled by threats of Hurricane Carmen and were equally stringent in their objections to having the bond issue tied together with general elections in November.

Saying he was against lumping the needs of the county school children together with purely political issues, board president Horace "Red" Davis said he did not want to see the school bond vote become an issue in a general election.

"We have two board members who will be coming up for reelection in that November election," Davis said, referring to himself and board member Lamar Lee whose term also expires, 1 "and I just don't want to see this thing become a political issue in those

Apparently hitting a responsive chord with the other board members present, Davis was supported in his remarks to keep the two elections separate. The board voted unanimously to petition county supervisors to schedule he second bond election for Oct. 19 or approximately three weeks before general elections in November.

"If we can't get it then," board nember Tom Shaw Said, "then I'd just as soon see it held over until after the first of the year."

The board settled on the Oct. 19 date after asking board attorney Joseph Gex to obtain an opinion from the state attorney general on the necessity of readvertising the election.

Gex, who spoke to assistant attorney general George Swindell over the telephone at Tuesday's meeting, relayed the opinion that the board would be required "to readvertise for three weeks and then wait 10 days before another election could be called. Gex emphasized to board members that the school board could only suggest election until November asked Gex to prepare the request for the supervisors immediately. "We realize that they (supervisors) are probably thinking of the extra cost of holding separate elections," Davis said, "but I just personally don't want to see the two elections associated together."

The board of supervisors indicated Monday that they would defer setting another date for the bond issue until they heard recommendations from the school board but seemed favorable to adding the issue to the general elec-

Hazeur charges school board is ineffective

h: Adoree Shortle Lehe News Uditor

"I think as a governing body this school board is most ineffective." trustee Emile Hazeur told Bay-Waveland school board members at a

Monday meeting Hazeur's denunciation of the board came during a discussion of board and administrative policies, contested by Hazeur and board president William Breland. Breland had earlier expressed reluctance over the board borrowing $30,300 on a short term loan which was needed, according superintendent J. D. Mc-Cullouch, to pay for sewer system repairs, a loud speaker system for the junior high school, drainage behind North Bay Elementary and new bleachers. The items had been deleted from the school budget following protest from the city of Waveland, but the school board decision to acquire the items under loan was made at a meeting last Breland later asked for a status report on Mrs. Juanita Mitchell, a teacher who had from December 1973 to April '74 with the expectation of returning to a teaching position. Mrs. Mitchell charged that on her return in April she was told there was no job available for her. She appeared before the school board and dissatisfied with that decision. has appealed to a higher court in Jackson. A black teacher, Mrs. Mitchell is charging the board and administration with discriminatory practice.

Against board attorney Sam Favre's admonition not to bring the matter up at that time. Hazeur demanded further information on the

"Why are we only now at the point of concilliation when we may have a federal case against us?" Hazeur asked. The board should be better informed on all such matters, he said angrily, and should not have to "hear it on the street, where I found out about Mrs. Mitchell's problem". *

McCullouch and trustee Mrs. Joseph Gex. Jr. both contended that the case had been discussed at earlier meetings when Hazeur had been absent. "I don't miss important meetings," Hazeur retorted. "but I do miss all these silly little secret meetings trying to budget. That's a matter for are perfectly legal." the city fathers, not the board.

Returning to Mrs. Mitchell, McCullouch explained that teachers are not paid during maternity leave and when Mrs. Mitchell returned in April, there was no opening at. any of the schools for a teacher. She was offered a job as a teacher's aid, which she refused.

When Hazeur protested that "hiring down'' was "demoralizing to qualified teachers', assistant superintendent Donald Caldwell interjected that fact that Mrs. Mitchell had been informed before she left in December that she was not recommended to be rehired on her return.

By her own admission, Caldwell said, she was unable to handle the students in her classes and was guilty, he added, of often dismissing her classes ahead of schedule.

earlier question about federal steps are being taken to system. He accused Mc-Cullouch and Caldwell of been granted maternity leave prevaricating in their assurance that the schools' ratio was "whatever the government requirea". He still has not been given exact figures on the number required nor on the ratio now employed in the system, Hazeur said tersely, but was certain that "two black teachers at the high school does not meet the quota".

He then questioned the satary scale for teachers aids, and was told it is $17.40 per day, which led to another heated exchange over Hazeur's allegation that some. teachers aids and librarians aids were being paid salaries in excess of that scale.

Trustee Tommy Kidd and Breland joined Hazeur in the altercation which finally centered on a matter of long standing contention, Mrs. J. McCullouch's qualifications as librarian at Waveland Elementary School. Mrs. Gex, who holds a degree in library science, explained that prior to 1971, state requirements called for a qualified librarian only at the high school level. A state statute passed in 1971 authorized a librarian's aid at iunior high and elementary -schools.

"They do all the same work as qualified librarians." Mrs. Gex explained, "but they are

Favre affirmed that the law makes no stipulation as to training or academic requirements for librarians aids any more than for teachers aids.

In other business, the board approved . McCullouch's recommendation to hire two new teachers at North Bay Elementary, Mrs. Brenda Gayle Carr, of Bay St. Louis, will teach second grade and Miss Rose M. Lewis, also of Bay St. Louis, will teach fourth grade.

McCullouch reported three break-ins at the high school since school opened two weeks ago, with the resultant loss of a quantity of foodstuffs. Missing are two cases of Purex, one tray of bread, six boxes of hamburger parties, one case of tuna fish, two loaves of hamburger meat (about 25 lbs.) and 24 lbs. of red beans. The thefts have been reported to the police, Hazeur then reiterated an the superintendent said, and guidelines for black-white prevent further occurances. In an unrelated matter. Breland's hesitance to pay an additional $632 per year to include the trustees in a liability insurance policy was overridden by Hazeur who argued that "we can't afford NOT to take it".

The policy covers lawsuits for Merrors and ommissions": Favre explained and the price for the trustees is about 10 percent of the annual $1 million policy.

The board needed the insurance, Favre urged, "in case someone brings a judgement against you for what may have been an honest mistake in opinion or for doing what you think is right". A motion was passed to accept the policy.

Hurricane Carmen

More than 7,000 personsthe majority from Hancock County, Pass Christian and other low-lying areas on the Coast-didn't take a chance on Carmen and took shelter 'at the NASA Space Technology Laboratóries.

Business areas in Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Pass Christian were like ghost towns as an estimated 60 percent of the Pass Christian population 'evacuated to higher ground. Clermont Harbor and Lakeshore were empty by Saturday noon.

People from the Coast and from Louisiana started arriving at NSTL (formerly the Mississippi Test Facility) early Saturday morning when Hurricane Warning flags were raised. Most remained until the "all clear" bulletins were issued Sunday morning.

Over 1,400 vehicles passed through the test site gated from New Orleans to the west and Gautier to the east.

About 1,600 persons took refuge at NSTL during the Camille disaster in 1969. Coast residents interviewed by the Echo agreed "We're not taking any more chances," and that's why officials at the NSTL also believed the number to be so much greater than previous times the huge environmental and space research center in Hancock County was utilized for shelter.

The American Red Cross furnished food for 19,000 meals served the refugees and assisted the NSTL Emergency Team with medical and other logistical support. John Worcester, division representative of the Gulf States Division of the Red Cross, said it was the best organized and managed emergency_shelter he_had ever worked with. Henry Auter, deputy manager of NSTL and Emergency Director for Carmen was in charge of the 175 member NSTL government and contractor team. Experienced volunteers from the communities also pitched in and helped. Nurses from Picavune and

Bay St. Louis assisted NSTL and Red Cross medical team with the many ill persons who required special handling during the emergency.

Auter said about 100 youngsters volunteered to maintain cleanliness, assist refugees, "babysit" and help out in the cafeteria.

In addition to the people. there were 12 Navy ships from New Orleans, two boats from the Louisiana Sports Fisheries and Wildlife Bureau and 75 private shrimp, fishing and pleasure boats that took shelter in the site's canals and harbor.

Standby Recovery Teams had made preparations and were ready to go into the local communities if they were needed for assistance had Carmen struck the Coast.

Throughout the weekend operation close contact was maintained with local community governmental officials, Civil Defense organizations, and the Mississippi Highway Patrol. Governor Bill Waller and Senator John Stennis were also in touch with the NSTL communications network which received more than 11,000 calls during the alert. NASA Headquarters in Washington offered assistance and was kept informed of the situation.

had this to say of the weekend shelter operation:

We are especially appreciative of all the help we received from the comfrom the refugees themselves. It was real demonstration of community spirit in action during a pretty difficult period.

Even though the shelte. NSTL was apparently operated most -efficiently, a planning session was held this week with representatives of the Emergency Team with the idea of improving the current plan from the additional experience gained. Suggestions solicited from Coast refugees

Bay will get sewage permit

A public turnout of approximately 30-40 persons were told last Thursday evening Sept. 5 that federal law requires the issuance of permits for every existing sewage discharge point by December of this year without regard to any protests against future use of that discharge point.

The permits, stated state Air and Water Pollution Control representative Joe Brown, does not condone any discharge point or type of permit but simply satisfies federal law municipalities have time to comply with new federal standards required by 1977. Brown and executive director of the commission, Glen Wood, emphasized that federal law presently requires each municipality to submit subsidized regional studies, referred to as 201 plans, outlining suitable future methods for disposal of waste.

"We expect," Wood said. "that the permit issued for be modified to reflect their study. Representatives of the Jourdan River Anti Pollution and Improvement Association stated their opposition to issuance of the permit to Bay St. Louis which allows that city to continue to operate its oxidation pond for at least another year. Effluent from the pond is discharged into Watts Bayou after treatment and ultimately flows into the Jourdan River and into the Mississippi Sound. Attorney Mike Haas, who represented the Jourdan to go.

Nuclear Energy: The Future Is Today

It was just 20 years ago that nuclear power mosed out of the dreams of scientists and towards reality for all of us. That year, the Atomic Energy Act was passed, stripping nuclear technology of its aura of government secrecy and allowing utilities to develop it for peaceful uses. Since then, the nuclear profile has sometimes been low, but when the energy crisis first loomed over the nation a few years ago, the power of the atom began to emerge as an essential source of

Now in 1974, 20 years after passage of the Act, the nuclear age has arrived in full force. "We have crossed the threshold," says Carl Walske, President of the Atomic Industrial Forum "By any reckoning we are now in the nuclear age. Nu clear power has become a fully competitive, wide ly adopted, conventional source of electricity. In only a few years, nuclear power has gone from a blip on the charts to the source of about six percent of our electric power capacity "Although this contribution is made by fewer than titty nuclear plants, more and more utilities are coming to regard it with respect

Utilities need reliable sources of electricial energy Despite the energy crisis the demand for all forms of energy continues to grow in the United States for industry, pollution control, mass transportation, and automobiles. But of all forms of energy, none will be in greater demand than electricity as more and more jobs in the home and in business are turned over to it Today, electric power accounts for 25 percent of total energy By 2000 it is expected to account for 50 percent. To meet this demand, electric utilities are using all avoil able tuels, mostly oil, coal, gas and nuclear. Oil and gas are limited in supply, as we have been hearing Coal is plentiful enough, but environment problems limit its use There is an adequate supply of nuclear fuel, on the other hand and utilities are finding it a reliable source of safe, economic and clean energy may have seemed slow at times, but actually it has exceeded early expectations In 1959, the official esti mate was that nuclear capacity in the United States would be 25,000 megawatts (a megawatt is equal to a million watts) by 1980 In fact, that level was achieved by the utilities industry by 1973 The Atomic Energy forecast for 1980 is for over 100,000 megawatts - more than four times the figure projected in 1959 Further projections are for 500,000 megawatts of nuclear power by 1990, which would represent a full 50 percent of the US electrical generating capacity, and 1.2 million megawatts by the year 2000, which would represent 60 percent of capacity. At the moment there are more than 1-0 nuclear reactor being built or in various stages of planning to help reach these goals

The Dixon Crucible Company was founded in 1847 by Joseph Dixon to manufacture ceramic crucibles for melting metals. Graphite, a black mineral noted for its heat-resistance and lubricating qualities, is the prime component of such hot pots. Dixon discovered another use for it he got the lead out and poured his graphite into the production of pencils. His first major market was the men fighting the Civil War, who wanted an easily portable and nexpensive instrument to write home with-and pernaps about!

THE SOARING COST OF LIGHTS They read like horror stories, those letters from Mississippians irate over the exorbitant increases in electricity rates.

My light bill went up sixty dollars in July and they tell me it is going up again," one troubled consumer wrote. "I have lived in my house for eleven years and have always been reasonably comfortable ... but now my light bill is higher than my house payment."

"The electric bills are at a point now where people are wondering how to pay. them," another wrote. "The average bill will run from seventy dollars to as much as a hundred and twenty-five dollars and more, which is more than some people's house payments.

"I can name you a family living in a 235 government house that has only one thousand square feet of living space and their bill this month is $98!

"I keep my thermostat on 85 degrees from 7 00 in the morning till 7:00 at night, then it is set on 80 degrees. My house is hot, but I try to conserve some of my husband's hard-earned money. He can't even be comfortable after working all day trying to provide his family with the necessities.'

I've received letter after letter with similar expressions of frustration over

Congress is well aware of the problem, too. In fact, natural gas hearings were held late last month by the Senate Commerce Committee, encompassing the entire spectrum of our nation's natural gas usage, the overall matter of natural gas regulations, and the forecast of projected consumption by utility

Officials of the Mississippi Power and Light Company and the Commissioners of the Mississippi Public Service Commission testified at these hearings.

In addition, the Federal Power Commission will hold hearings this month. Mississippi Power and Light Company, along with the Mississippi Public Service Commission, will request relief from the present curtailment plan of natural gas.

I have personally urged the Federal Power Commission to give all due consideration to this request. I simply feel that this will be the most expeditious course of action for relief in the immediate future.

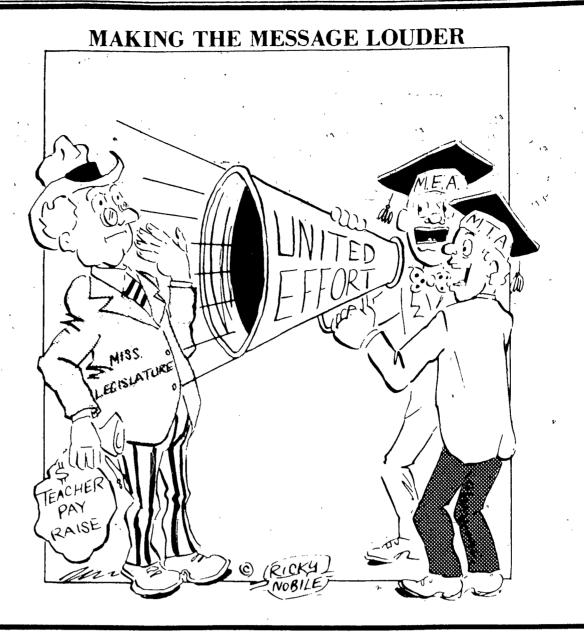

I have also joined my Mississippi congressional colleagues in writing a strong letter to the Federal Power Commission, urging that the case be moved to the head of the docket for immediate consideration.

"The financial burden to Mississippi consumers caused by extremely high electricity costs has reached a critical level," the letter reads. "As a result of the curtailment order, and the increases in the cost of fuel oil as a substitute fuel, many of our state's citizens are simply no longer able to pay for their electricity.

""The elderly, frequently on fixed" incomes such as veterans pensions or Social Security, see electric bills totally eroding incomes badly needed for food and medicines."

The problem, of course, is not confined to the federal government. It is a problem shared by all of us - - including the consumer, the Mississippi Public service Commission, the power companies and the gas companies.

I am hopeful that some avenue of approach to this costly situation can be devised, and I shall continue to closely monitor this pressing matter of high costs of electricity for the residents of my state.

SUPPORTS SHERIFF Dear Editor:

The Board of Supervisors has seen fit to harass Sheriff Ladner about food in Hancock Co. Jail. Well sir, you can take it from one that knows.

I am a prisoner in the said Co. Jail since December 1973. I was locked up 4 months. I would also cuss out Mr. Jerry Ladner about food conditions:

I am a cook and I have been cooking there for about 3 months. I ecoked in the Air Force for 21/2 years. Italso cooked in a Federal Prison for 112 years.

What I am getting at is that Mr Ladner is lucky to be able to feed said prisoners on the $2 that the Board gives him the way food prices are today. I have seen Sheriff Ladner, his wife and Deputies run back and forth to the sales at the big stores here in town trying to get stuff that was on sale, at their own expense and time, so that he could work out his budget.

What the Board, should do is to give Mr. Ladner more money instead of complaining The Board 12 years ago were appropriating the same $2 a day

It is still the same way today and everyone knows how prices have gone up since. It was only two meals then This whole thing does not matter to me I just have a number of days to go. I am doing this now for the prisoners in jail and ones to follow.

Thank you for getting my letter in last weeks edition. Maybe God has provided us, the concerned people of Hancock County the remaining time that it is going to take to unify the beliefs for the needs of our children.

I mean that "Hurricane Carmen" postponed our school bond election and now our children are going to suffer because the county voters and all family members will remain uninformed because the consent of our Board of Supervisors is at present bound by laws to defer mental and physical developement of our children.

Because of inflation I do not believe that postponments and neglect of the needs of our children can be accepted. The well informed parents, citizens, and taxpayers will get out and do the

The veterans administration has started a new program designed to help veterans who are going to college under the G.I. Bill. It's called "Vet-Rep" program.

Vet-Reps have been specially selected and trained by the VA to become experts on veterans affairs regarding educational claims. They are placed on college, and university campuses throughout the state to help iron out any problems that arise between the college, the veteran and the Veteran Administration. Many of them will be on a full time basis to help expedite your assistance checks, fill out VA Forms properly and answer any questions you may have.

Definition of a veteran for medical purposes: A veteran for medical purposes is a person who has served in the active military, naval or air service, and who was discharged or released therefrom under conditions other than dishonorable. Any veteran so defined is eligible for VA hospitalization. The requirement for wartime service has been eliminated. This means that if a veteran does NOT have a dishonorable discharge, he is eligible for hospitalization.

It has always been of utmost importance that when claiming a serviceconnected disability, that the most specific information available, as to dates of treatment, place of treatment (i.e.name of hospital) and the veterans military organization at the time of treatment be given. The need for this information has been highlighted even more since the fire at the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis.

For those records involved in the fire (Army records dated 1912 through 1959) and Air Force records I through Z dated Septembber 1947 through December 1963) the Records Center is asking for the organization identity, to include units and sub-units down to Company level and the inclusive dates the Veteran served in each. Such information will permit a search of organizational records for available data when the military records cannot be located elsewhere.

All of this means that processing delays can be shortened if the required information can be included when the claim is first put in. It would also assist if, when complete information cannot be recalled, that the claim form states that more complete information is not available.

It is realized the difficulty in recalling all this information but if you feel that you have a valid claim it is worth it, A claimant might write to one of the men who were in his unit and get the information, or the name of someone who could give the information.

Look up your old Special Orders that assigned you to or transferred you from the unit. It could mean an awful lot of money to you and your dependents if you can give the correct information.

It's up to you.

Program a must WASHINGTON - Senator James (). Eastland (D-Miss.) this week urged Mississippi communities to "seriously consider" their status regarding the federal flood insurance subsidy

"Officials of communities, counties and other local governments should seriously consider their status and attitude toward the Federal Flood Insurance Program," said Senator Eastland, "If the proper local governmental body has not adopted acceptable building codes and zoning ordinances for designated flood plains by 1975 or within one year after the areas are designated, the citizens of these areas will be unable to receive any type of federal or institutional financing for industrial or private

construction. " "After July 1, 1975, any citizen of such a community will be ineligible to receive Farmers Home Administration, Veterans Administration, Federal Housing Administration; or any other federal financing for any type of construction," Eastland said. "They will also be unable to qualify for any type of federally-insured financing for building in the designated areas."

The Federal Flood Insurance Administration was established in 1972 to provide federally subsidized flood insurance in areas with a high risk of flooding. The Administration deter-times weat areas are flood plains and subsidizes the high cost of flood insurance within those areas. "The . verament will subsidize all except were five cents of the cost of the insurar ce preciums "

In order for the people to qualify for this subsidy, the proper local government must establish zoning ordinances and, when required, building codes regulating construction within the designated areas.

"Additionally, communities which have not qualified for the program by the established deadline are ineligible for flood relief from the FmHA, Small Business Administration or any other federal agency with disaster relief programs," said Senator Eastland. "While the deadline for participation is still in the future, our citizens should be aware that their communities face this time limit. It would be tragic for one of our towns or cities to be stricken by flooding only for the citizens to discover they cannot receive any type of federal assistance.

"It's obviously imperative that Mississippi communities, counties and other responsible governmental agencies comply fully with the flood insurance program in order for our citizens to receive the maximum benefits of the federal programs available to those in other sections of the country."

Dear Dr. John, I have been reading about chromosome damage from tactics of previous years. I smoking grass. Does this "remember this same hue and mean that I' will have a deformed baby if I smoke pot? A worried teenager

This letter was one of many asking about the new research on marijuana. Let it be known right at the start that I am neither pro nor con on the subject of marijuana at this time. I am simply pro TRUTH! And we are still seeking the truth. Because of this, all I can say in answer to these letters is that we still don't know.

Last, January, Dr. M.A. Stenchever from University of Utah Medical Center said that he had discovered, in his research studies of marijuana, that averaged chromosome breaks per 100 white blood cells while nonusers averaged only 1.2

He also stated that this MIGHT raise . the POSSIBILITY of getting cancer or having a child with birth defects. This would depend upon the broken cells multiplying and producing other broken cells. Then in ten or 15 years a person might develop cancer from these reproduced broken cells. It is vital that more research be done on this study by other scientists. Dr. Stenchever has left too many ifs good for a girl to be doing that and mights and other research

It is important that we do personally, am far more not return to the false scare concerned about the research being done by Dr. Robert Kolodny, Director of the Incry against LSD years ago. fertility Program at the Reproductive Biology "If you take LSD you will Research Foundation in St. have a baby with three heads and four arms!" Then the

We must not fall testosterone levels in into that same trap again and try to scare our youth out of marijuana users were averaging 40 percent lower using drugs. This doesn't work than in non-users. In that same study, Dr. Stenchever admitted that Valium, one of the most widely used tranquilizers on the market today, caused the same amount of chromosome damage as marijuana. Why then, if these findings are true and something for us to be deeply concerned about...why haven't we been warned that the millions of people taking Valium should be worried about birth defects? Why would the FDA allow Valium to be produced and doctors to prescribe it.?

I am NOT saying that marijuana is harmless or that this study is false. I AM saying that we must find the TRUTH and at this point in time we thus far has not duplicated his still are not sure of what that

LOCAL INDEPENDENT AGENTS ANSWER INSURANCE QUESTIONS

The wild run of inflation is causing consumers to start asking questions about their according to the National Association of Insurance Agents Among the questions asked of the country's independent agents are -How will inflation affect the premium on my home insurance?

That will depend on sev eral factors, including your company's loss experience The more important ques tion however is whether or not your policy's limits cover you adequately for a serious loss Claims are paid on the basis of cost of repair or replacement at the time of the loss If you have $20,000 limits on your home coverage but it costs $25,000 to replace your home today, you would be in a real financial bind in case of a serious fire -What can I do about -There are a couple of ways to protect yourself. There are home insurance policies available with inflation-guard provisions. These raise your limits a set percentage every three months during the life of the policy At renewal, you renew at the higher limits, then the guard takes over again. Another way is to deal with one of your local independ ent insurance agents. He will keep track of your coverage and advise you on proper limits to meet today's inflation. Often, he will automatically adjust your limits at renewal time to compensate for the rise in the cost of repair and replacement during the past 12 months. Also, he represents several companies and can place your business with the one giving you the best value

What is the best type of home insurance policy? The best type of policy is the one which properly protects you. And that is the primary service of the independent agent, matching your insurance raleds to the right policy

The specialist gave several reasons for avoiding commercial jars

Regular canning lids are not designed to give an airtight seal on commercial jars.

Canning lids do not properly seal commercial jars because the necks are too short for the bands to screw down tightly," she explained. "Using the lid that comes on the commercial jar is a poor practice too. Once it has been opened, the lid will not give an airtight seal when reused

Regular canning lids will not give airtight seals when they're re-used either. For this reason home canned foods should always be sealed with new lids

Failure to get an airtight seal can lead to food spoilage. The purpose of the seal is to 🚵 keep out organisms that cause spoilage Without an airtight seal, you run the risk of letting harmful organisms "in " she noted:

Lack of heat-treated glass is the second reason for avoiding commercial jars.

Top educator pushes equal opportunities

By MARGUERITE SULLIVAN

Copley News Service.

WASHINGTON - Virginia Trotter might not figure prominently in the women's lib hall of fame, but for the next few years her name just might be linked with the

cause. As the top educator in the United States, Dr. Trotter must help implement new federal regulations, expected to go into effect by January, which ban sex discrimination in education. That means "equal access and equal opportunity" for both sexes in everything from the football field to the auto mechanics and home economics classrooms.

Just weeks into her job as assistant secretary for education in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (she was sworn in June 13), Dr. Trotter, 52, who previously was a university administrator, says fortunately the "women's area" is one in which she has a special inter-

She won't be responsible for enforcing the new anti-sex discrimination regulations that will be the job of the Office for Civil Rights. Her education division, however, will help school systems work out their plans for compliance with the guidelines.

Her efforts for equal opportunity won't start with the jobhunting stage, but will begin in grade schools, in the writing of textbooks, on athletic fields and in student counseling rooms.

If the sexes are separated, a school must prove its sports program is equal "in terms of facilities and in terms of instruction and in terms of what happens," she said.

'They can have a boys' football course, but they have to be sure that a girl can take. football, too, if she wants to. We may have girl football kackers, who knows""

Equal access won't be onesided.

Boys will be able to get out the "bachelor" baking courses and take real home economics. If they want to take shorthand, they can. "I would like to think that women could grow up learning that it is just as important to make a contribution to productive work of some kind and not be afraid because they didn't get married." Dr. Trotter said.

By CLAIRE COX Copley News Service

NEW YORK - The Southern Baptists, organized dur? ing the dispute over slavery before the Civil War, elected their first black to a top denominational post

The Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America voted to establish its first social action program in the United States and Canada

The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., confronted by falling income and rising costs, was forced to pare its 1975 operations budget by 25 per cent.

These were some of the principal actions of major religious bodies during their national meetings at which they took stock of their internal problems, made plans for the future and stated their views on national issues.

Among the subjects that came up with some frequency were the demands of women for full equality in the church, amnesty for Vietnam War draft dodgers and deserters, abortion and the state of political morality

The Unitarian Universalist Association voted to eliminate all remaining sexual discrimination in the language of its by-laws, reaffirmed its opposition to restoration of the death penalty, which has been ended by the U.S. Supreme Court, and approved establishment of an Office of Gay Concerns to deal with homospecial election.

MISSISSIPPI STATE -Jars used for commercial purposes, such as mayonnaise jars, are not suitable substitutes for standard canning

Nancy Ertz, food-nutrition specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service at Mississippi State University, said homemakers who cannot get standard canning iars this summer better look to their freezer or start drying their surplus produce.

The specialist gave several reasons for avoiding commercial jars. Regular canning lids are not designed to give an airtight seal on commercial jars.

"Canning lids do not properly seal commercial jars because the necks are too short for the bands to screw down tightly," she explained. "Using the lid that comes on the commercial jar is a poor practice too. Once it has been opened, the lid will not give an airtight seal when reused.

Regular canning lids will not give airtight seals when they're re-used either. For this reason home canned foods should always be sealed with new lids.

Failure to get an airtight seal can lead to food spoilage. "The purpose of the seal is to keep out organisms that cause spoilage. Without an airtight seal, you run the risk of letting harmful organisms in," she noted.

Lack of heat-treated glass is the second reason for avoiding commercial jars.

"Commercial jars have not been treated to withstand high temperatures

Top educator pushes equal opportunities

By MARGUERITE SULLIVAN

Copley News Service. WASHINGTON — Virginia Trotter might not figure prominently in the women's lib hall of fame, but for the next few years her name just might be linked with the cause. As the top educator in the United States, Dr. Trotter must help implement new federal regulations, expected to go into effect by January, which ban sex discrimination in education. That means "equal access and equal opportunity!' for both sexes in everything from the football field to the auto mechanics and home economics classrooms.

Just weeks into her job as assistant secretary for education in the Department of Health. Education and Welfare (she was sworn in June 13), Dr. Trotter, 52, who previously was a university administrator, says fortunately the "women's area" is one in which she has a special inter-

She won't be responsible for enforcing the new anti-sex discrimination regulations that will be the job of the Office for Civil Rights. Her education division, however, will help school systems work out their plans for compliance with the guidelines. Her efforts for equal opportunity won't start with the jobhunting stage, but will begin in grade schools, in the writing of textbooks, on athletic fields and in student counsel-schools can opt for putting girls and boys on the same teams - "there's no reason why they can't play volleyball together." she says - or schools can continue separate sports programs provided they are equal.

If the sexes are separated, a school must prove its sports program is equal "in terms of facilities and in terms of instruction and in terms of what happens," she said.

'They can have a boys' football course, but they have to be sure that a girl can take football, too, if she wants to. We may have girl football kickers, who knows?"

Equal access won't be onesided.

Boys will be able to get out of the "bachelor" baking courses and take real home economics. If they want to take shorthand, they can.

"I would like to think that women could grow up learning that it is just as importantto make a contribution to productive work of some kind and not be afraid because they didn't get married," Dr. Trotter said.

NEW YORK - The Southern Baptists, organized during the dispute over slavery before the Givil War, elected their first black to a top denominational post

The Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America voted to establish its first social action program in the United States and Canada.

The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., confronted by falling income and rising costs, was forced to pare its 1975 operations budget by 25 per cent

These were some of the principal actions of major religious bodies during their national meetings at which they took stock of their internal problems, made plans for the future and stated their views on national issues.

Among the subjects that came up with some frequency were the demands of women for full equality in the church, amnesty for Vietnam War draft dodgers and deserters, abortion and the state of political morality

The Unitarian Universalist Association voted to eliminate all remaining sexual discrimination in the language of its by-laws, reaffirmed its opposition to restoration of the death penalty, which has been ended by the U.S. Supreme Court, and approved establishment of an Office of Gay Concerns to deal with homosexual membership The General Board of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christi set the tone for the denomination's General Assembly in San Antonio, Tex., by proposing that high priority be placed on evangelism, beginning with introduction of special training programs at seminaries. St. Augustine Lawns Burned By Leaf Spot

MISSISSIPPI STATE - If part of your St. Augustine lawn has a burned or scorched appearance, it may be suffering from gray leaf spot.

According to J. L. Peeples, Extension plant pathologist, gray leaf spot of St. Augustine grass is a fungus disease which causes irregular gray, dirty-vellow or ash colored spots. These spots are accompanied by brown, purple or water-soaked borders on leaf blades. The disease develops rapidly with abundant moisture and warm temperatures. It is usually noticed first in shaded areas that remain damp most of the time. "Disease severity is enhanced by excessive nitrogen fertilizer on certain types of St. Augustine grass," the plant pathologist explained. 'Newly-sprigged or rapidlygrowing grass is more susceptible than wellestablished grass. Although, primarily a disease on St. Augustine grass, it is known to attack centipede grass."

Control is best accomplished by avoiding excessive nitrogen fertilization. Peeples noted that most turf fungicides control this disease effectively when used at 10-day intervals during periods favorable for infec-

"For best results apply the fungicide in 15 gallons of water plus two ounces of a good liquid detergent for each 1,000 square feed of lawn area," he said.

Some of the fungicides that are effective for gray leaf spot control include: Thiram, Zineb, Captan, Doconil 2787 and Dyrene.

New course is offered

The Pearl River Jr. College Vocational-Technical Center at Bay St. Louis is offering for the first time a General Clerical Course. This course is recommended for the student who expects to do general office work rather than specialize in any one particular field. The Center has purchased over 30,000 dollars worth of equipment for the new general clerical course to be offered this fall at the local center. The course is limited to 20 students, however there are still some openings. Above, Paula Ladner and Laura Duncan, who will be freshmen at the Vo-Tech center try out some of the electronic equipment for the course.

Thank you, the coordinating agencies, and the volunteers for your immediate response to the necessary actions taken to avoid the possible dangers from Hurricane Carmen. In an answer to our prayers we were spared the onslaught of another direct hurricane force.

In future disasters, your ability and courage will be again needed, you will quickly answer the call to duty. You will again act as one family, a homogenous group, one unit, dedicated to the people.

Thank you so much and may God bless you.

Many former seat belt users seem to be degenerating into seat belt haters, at the hand of a federally mandated system designed to save lives on the road.

Mechanics — who generally refuse to disconnect the systems required in 1974 cars report new car owners are trying all sorts of tactics to send electrical interlocking belt systems to the grave.

Several mechanics referred to the key of the new interlocking system as "the Brain," a small computer in many models that permits the engine to start only after seat belts have been retracted and fastened. In the meantime, the system is programmed to buzz as a prodding reminder to buckle

Fashion Design Can Be An "Open Sesame" To A New Life

"Today's liberated women," says Kit Moss, Director of the National School of Dress De sign, "have many opportuni-ties to find work that's fun and, also, monetarily reward. ing Fashion design is an ex-cellent example of an activity that wan bring new excite-ment, new challenges into a woman's life."

The fashion world is a wo-man's world . forever changing . forever interesting.

Dress design may have had its origins as far back as the first enterprising caveyoman who wrapped a bearskin around herself in a manner that was womanly different It's been a career area that's been expanding volcanically since "vive la difference" be came a gleam in cavemen's

Now, especially at this time -learning about the who, what, when, where and how of dress designing can banish a hum drum existence and help create a richer, fuller life for the woman who is really searching for an "Open Sexi me" to a new life

Figuratively speaking fash ion design offers as many ca reer opportunities as there are leaves on a tree Fashion coordinator, fitter, sample mak er, siylist, buver, illustrator color consultant, fashion consultant, shop owner, costume designers for stage, movie or are examples of some

Just because homes in a neighborhood are the same approximate size, doesn't mean the electric bills will be the same. Habits, insulation, and the time of year have a great deal to do with the amount of your bill.

Some people like cooler homes, other feel comfortable in more moderate temperatures. Soaking in a full tub of hot water is not as economical as taking a shower. Doors are left standing open at some houses, where some people practice keeping the cool or warm air in.

Electric bills can be higher for the same reason your grocery, gas and paper bills have gone up - according to how you use them.

Your Electric Power Association is as concerned about the high cost of power as you are. There is no immediate answer in sight.

A LURE PRIMER

Lishing lures are fascinating. They come in all sizes, colors and shapes. They guigle, splutter shimmy spin, dance, dive and float. And occasionally some of them catch fish Neophyte anglers are often contused by the multitude of lures available to stuff in their brand new tackle boxes. They would be supported to the contust of usually buy what the tackle salesman recommends (the highest priced), what their friends recommend (they don't want any competition), or what happens to look good to them at the moment. Seldom does a beginning angler know just what the different lures do.

To help solve the dilemma of which lures do what, the fishing experts at Mercury outboards have compiled a lure primer for new anglers. It doesn't tell which lure to use, but it does indicate what a particular type of lure is supposed

Deep diving lures: These have lips in front to plane them down to deep water when re-trieved. They can be either floating-diving or sinking lures. Sinkers let you fish to the bottom, depending upon the re-trieval speed Floating-diving littes are good down to about 20 feet Both troll well, and the speed of your outboard-powered boat determines the trolling

Floating-diving lures: They rest on the surface, but dive under when retrieveds Best action occurs when retrieved slowly. Some chug on the surface, then wobble along for a few feet simulating a wounded minnow. Others call for a steady retrieve with depth depending on the with depth depending on the Sinking lures: Spoons, spinners and sinking plugs go right to the bottom when cast. Some spoons wobble while sinking and they are frequently taken by fish then. Others need to be retrieved from the bottom.

Beware the Siren's call

The Waveland Police Department, which typically used the excuse of a hurricane to postpone last Sunday's softball match with Sylvan's Sirens, has been rechallenged by that amalgam of ambidextrous authority to be present and accounted for on Sunday, Sept., 15 at 5 p.m. at the Waveland ballpark.

The Sirens who accused the Bambi Patrol of effecting fatigue due to emergency work said they would bring padded gloves for the opposition's tender hands.

The Bambi Patrol was meanwhile known to be trying to invoke a whammy to drive the invading Sirens into the

The Patrol was also issuing cotton earpieces to every man in an effort to block out the horrible Siren's chatter.

The Siren's calls to each other have been known to drive lesser men to self destruction and to cause themto run headlong into the sea.

Should the Sirens be overcome they will more than likely be tied to a hitching post in town for all to laugh at and vilify...at least until someone from the head Siren's office comes down and pays a victualing fee.

EVERYMAN'S FISHING TACKLE

For many years a snobbish attitude existed among some fishermen toward spinfishing tackle. They peered down their noses at this type of fishing gear as though it were inferior

The truth is that spinfishing can be a superior method over other kinds of fishing tackle, and it's relatively easy to learn how to use An indication of spinning's acceptance today comes from professional sport anglers questioned by Mercury outboards' outdoor recreation department. Most of them admit to using at least one spinning outfit as part of their standard competition fishing tackle.

By contrast the Pirates had win record by another game little trouble last week Friday night when the Pirates disposing of arch rival Vancleave 20-6.

Coach Bill Stevens is expected to have his team high Bay High, which is under again for the rematch of the Bay High-Pass rivalry. The Pirates were blanked by the Tigers last year 20-0.

> Spinfishing's popularity came about because of the spinning reel's simplicity, ease of opera-tion, low cost and reliability. There are two types of spin-ning reels: open-face and closedface. Open-face reels can be cast more accurately than closedface reels because the caster - holding the line taut with his forefinger -- is able to detect the right moment to release the line.

NEXT TO A&P ROOD STORE

Hurricane Carmen passed us by, thank goodness. The storm proved a great threat to this section for several hours. Coming on the weekend it made a lot of fishermen stay home to board up businesses and take care of home duties necessary when a hurricane

Over the weekend practically no fishing, crabbing or shrumping could be done due to rainy weather, high winds and water Sunday the sun shone but it was too windy for most any kind of fishing.

Don't think fresh water fishing was hurt too much except the water was churned up and was on the dirty side. A couple of days will be required to get the water back to normal and bass and perch will be caught as usual.

Salt water fishing will also get back to normal again. Shrimp boats were tied up but are operating again

Most boats at the Yacht ('lub and kept in outside waters were moved to safety up the rivers and bayous but have been brought back to heir moorings by now

Jos Monti, Charlene Coco, Anna Margaret Boudreaux. Ruby Blaize, and Rosemary Blaize went fishing again last week. They caught 75 speckles, some rat reds, ground mullets and croakers. The girls are getting good and get their share of the finny ribe on each trip out. They said catching them is a lot of

Mr and Mrs. Dave Caillier, New-comers to Clermont Harbor, are ardent fishermen. They have been getting their snare also Read "where Dr. Emile Bertucci, Chief of Staff at St. Bernard General Hospital, and assistants did a good job last week during Project Halt. Residents of St. Bernard had their blood pressure checked and other checks made. It was a job well done.

Better take a little time off to do some fly fishing Doc. The fish need to be checked too and it is good for what ails you.

In recognition of the outs anding contributions that Louisiana's hunters and ishermen have made to maservation, recreation, and the economy, the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission today proclaimed September 28, as LOUISIANA HUNTING AND FISHING DAY and determined that this cay be an annual observance or, the fourth Saturday of each

September Burton Angelle, director of the Commission, commented that for the past three years National Hunting and Fishing Day has been observed on the last Saturday of September for the purpose of giving well deserved and special recognition to the hunters and fishermen of the country He said since the turn of the century, hunters and anglers have been the leaders in nearly all major conservation programs and these sportsmen-conservationists are responsible for the founding of state fish and game departments in all 50 states.

They asked that they, themselves, be required to buy licenses and that the money collected be used to support state conservation agencies: In the last 50 years alone, these sportsmen have provided $2.5 billion for conservation programs.

There are a lot of our local sportsmen who fish and hunt in Louisiana. Thought they would be interested in the above.

Kinder hard to write this column this week. Hurricane Carmen took the spot light.

According to Harry Roman, Louis Decell and Hoke Ogden they have made plans to go dove hunting as soon as the season opens. The season opens in Miss, the middle of Sept They have everything ready for the opening day. According to the three, doves are heree and some good shooting should be at hand.

But there is always something else doing.

Judge Homes pulled a fast one-went to North Miss, where the season opens sooner. More on this later: Don't know how many doves he killed.

Ray Garner and John Ladner are both good dove hunters. They will be after the prize birds a little later.

A. C. Mitchell and Joe Kern are mostly fly fishermen. When the season turns to hunting a lot of fishermen go to hunting. This applies to these two sportsmen.

J. C. Koenenn and Russell Elliott made a nice fishing trip to the Louisiana marsh. They returned with speckles, red fish, sheepshead, etc. of course this was before the threat of Carmen. The old girl spoiled everything. Forgot to say they had flounders, too.

Another good fisherman is has purchased a swell boat which he shares with his friends. Fishing is his second when it comes to fishing, the larger of the species. Enough said!

Harold Favre doesn't do much fishing. Doesn't even crab. But he and the madam are tons when it come to making stuff crabs. Better try them if you want to find out what another seafood tastes

Carmen kept Eddie Engelhorn and his wife home the past weekend. No fishing, no boating, no nothing, said Eddie. There will be other days, partner, Mourning Doves are taking the top spot this month. The food for doves is almost entirély weedseeds and waste grain. They prefer small seeds, but corn, peanuts and soybeans are taken. Corn fields, millet fields and soy bean fields come first in their liking. Hunters surround these fields and shoot them mostly when they fly over or light to feed. Of course, not too good hunters shoot them on the posse when lighting in trees or on the ground. However when they are killed they make for mighty good eating. During the long breeding season a single pair may nest six times.

As a precautionary measure be sure you have a hunting license. Our game wardens are mighty good fellows but have a job to do. Help them by obeying all hunting laws. Make it easy on yourself too.

It will be a few days until bass fishing gets back to normal. Often threats of a storm. Tides have to get right and the waters clear. Should have some good fishing soon. Floundering and soft crabbing should also get better. Fix up the old light and go after them.

According to Harris Boudreaux he was catching shrimp off the seawall down Cedar Point way before Carmen threatened. They will

Herman Holden doesn't claim Ree Elliott who operates a to be much of a fisherman but picture show at Gulfport. Ree he does take credit for raising some of the homely earthworms used by still fishermen for catching bass love. He goes on every oc- and perch. Herman said he is casion. Just another Elliott going to raise night crawlers,

'Cafe racing' comes to U.S.

By JERRY ABBOTT Copley News Service

When Peter McIntosh became bored with his two-yearold Honda 750, he didn't trade it in on a newer model. Instead he visited a local motorcycle accessory shop and had his stock bike converted into a "cafe racer," a European styling fad that is taking

America by storm. Cafe racers are simply cosmetically altered motorcycles, outfitted to look as much like production road racing machines as possible. Cafe admits McIntosh, an intern at racing got its start in England in the early 1960s when riders would challenge one another to informal Sunday afternoon races from pub to pub

Today cafe racers are found throughout Europe, but it wasn't until a year ago that the fad began catching on in the United States

'Two years ago I would have considered converting my buke into a chopper with those small wheels, high handlebars and all that chrome," a major Los Angeles hospital. "But now everybody's getting into cafe bikes so I decided to climb on the bandwagon."

For the uninitiated, it can be expensive to climb on the bandwagon. Complete cafe racer conversions .- including such necessary items as a fiber glass flaring, dropped handlebars, special shifting mechanisms and a large-capacity fuel tank - can cost $500 and up.
